

Standardbreds are either trotters or pacers.

A trotter moves like this when it races.

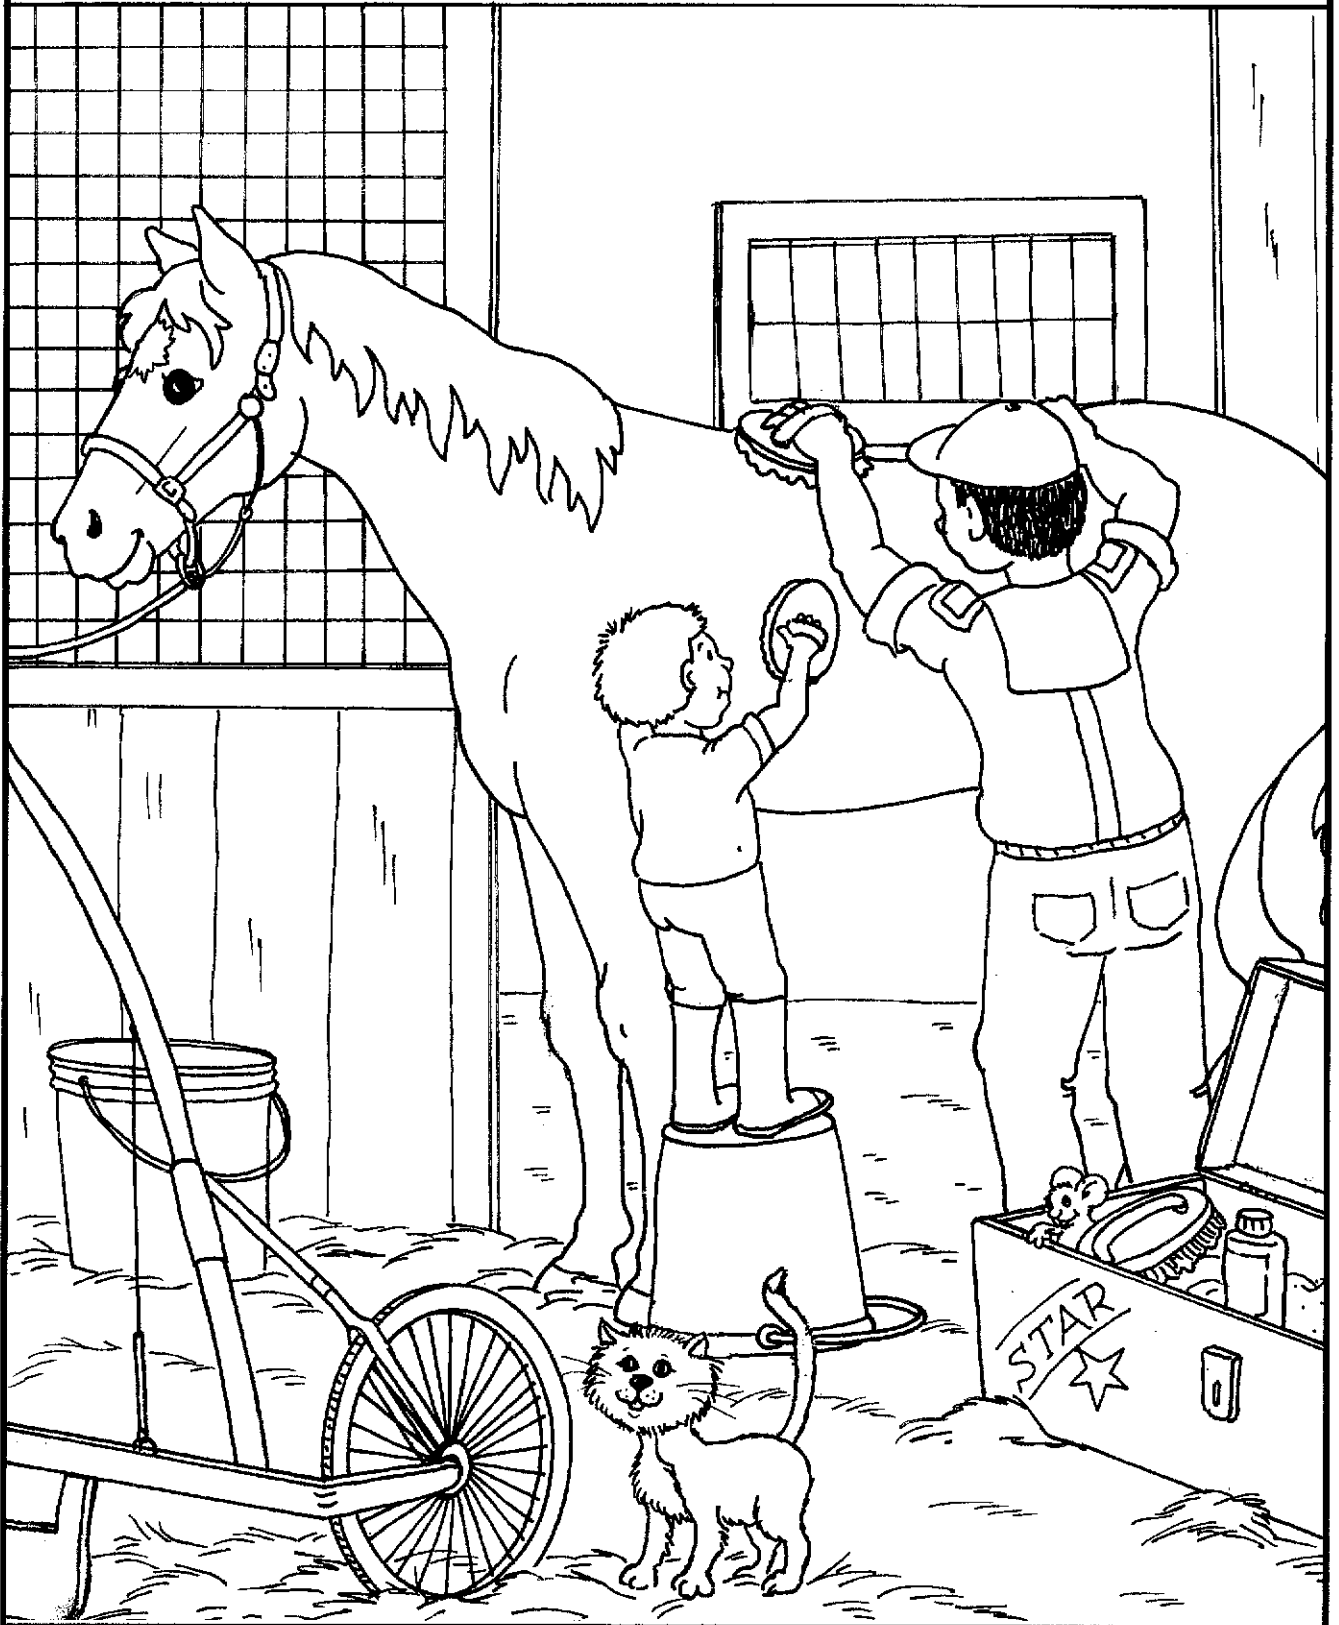

A pacer moves like this.

Look at how the horses move their legs.

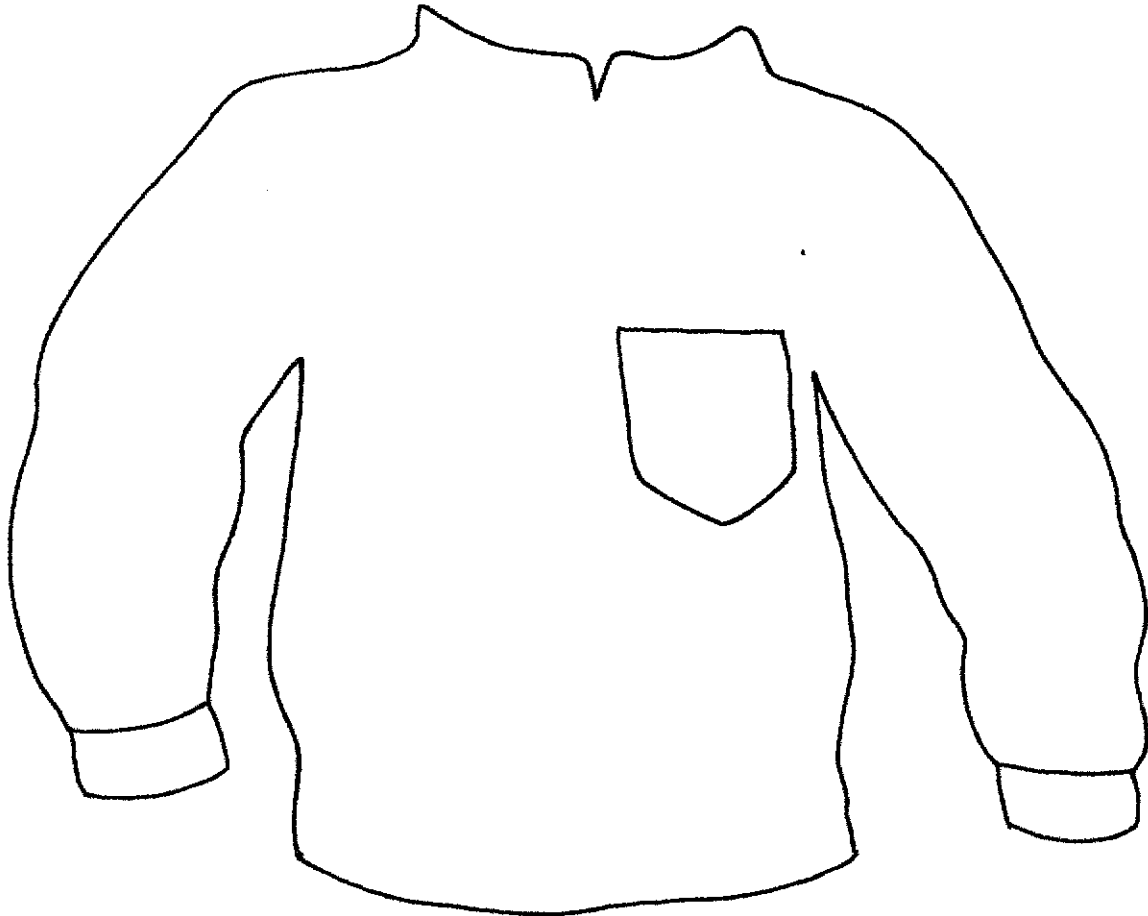

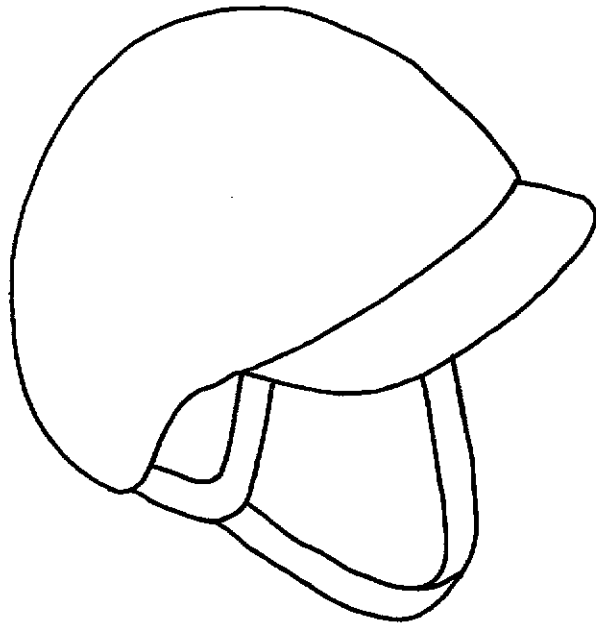

Trainers and drivers spend many years learning about horses—some learn from their families when they are children.

Drivers wear a uniform called colors.

How would I look in colors?

Design your own colors.

You can use as many as three colors and another color for trim.

When I win, I go to the winner's circle to have my picture taken with my trainer and owner. Everyone is happy, especially me. I wish you could be my owner.

Draw yourself in this picture right next to me.
